What is the difference between a curling iron and a wand?

The only true difference between curling irons and wands is that an iron has a clamp to hold your hair in place while you style. You'll also find that wands come in more shapes than curling irons do, such as conical and bubble, says DiGregorio.

Which curling iron is right for You?

Until we live in a fairytale world where little forest animals get us ready in the morning, the Drybar Rotating Curling Iron is our next best option. Sort of like the electric assist you get from an e-bike, the curling iron features a rotating base that allows you to manually twist from the bottom of the tool while your hair is clamped in the iron.
