Is it necessary to insure solar panels?

If you have leased solar panels, the leasing company may require you to obtain insurance coverage for the system, specifying coverage limits, deductibles, and additional insured parties. When you own solar panels, you have more flexibility in choosing the insurance coverage.

Does home insurance cover rooftop solar panels?

Yes, most home insurance policies do cover rooftop solar panels. By installing solar panels you are enabling your house to produce its own electricity. These rooftop solar panels are usually considered a permanent attachment to your property, similar to a patio or a security system and can, therefore, be considered a form of home improvement.

How can I insure my solar panel system?

To insure your solar panel system, you can add endorsements or riders to your existing homeowners insurance policy. Endorsements modify the policy terms to specifically include coverage for your solar panel system.

Are solar panels covered by a separate insurance policy?

Separate insurance policies for solar panels may offer additional benefits, such as coverage for loss of income due to system downtime or the costs associated with temporary replacement power. These added protections could provide financial security in unexpected disruptions to your solar panel system.

Will solar panels increase my homeowners insurance premium?

You may not see an increase in your homeowners insurance premium after installing solar panels on your roof. However, you'll likely need to raise your coverage limits to account for the replacement cost of your solar panels, which will likely result in some increase to your premium.

Does my installer warranty cover damage during a solar installation?
