Are free solar panels a scam?

Know that "free" or "no cost" solar panel offers are scams. The federal government does not install solar systems in homes for free. If you're considering whether solar energy is right for you, check out the Department of Energy's guide for homeowners and learn more. Or check out the Department of Treasury's guidance on clean energy.

How do I avoid solar panel scams?

Knowing about solar scams and what to look out for can help you protect your assets and prevent you from becoming victimized. To avoid solar panel scams, we strongly recommend doing your own research and verifying that your solar company is legitimate before signing any contracts. Take time to make the right decision: Never rush into a contract.

Is American Solar a scam?

There are several legitimate companies called American Solar, US Solar, or similar names that suggest the business is based in the United States and deals with solar energy. Unfortunately for these companies, their reputations are sometimes called into question because of scammers who pose as their business (or one that sounds similar in name).

What is a Solar scam?

Smishing ("SMS" + "phishing"): Sometimes solar scams (and other phone fraud attempts) are done by text message. These smishing attacks generally instruct the target to click a link to take advantage of an exclusive offer that could significantly reduce their energy bills.

Is a solar lease a scam?

Solar lease or power purchase agreement (PPA) scams: Although leasing solar panels or financing using a PPA are not necessarily scams, these contracts are extremely difficult to break and can leave you saddled with an unwanted monthly payment for a solar array you don't even own.

Are solar energy scam calls dangerous?

Solar energy scam calls can be dangerous, and falling victim to one can bring about severe consequences like financial fraud and identity theft. The good news is that there are ways to spot a scam and get out of it unscathed. Since phone scams often use the same tactics, it stands to reason that they come with many of the same warning signs.

These scams start with an unexpected phone call, message on social, or even an in-person visit. The so-called official offers you an "energy audit" to reduce your utility costs. Or they might try to sign you up for a "free" program to make your ...
