

Does Vietnam have a solar energy boom?

Vietnam has recently experienced a tremendous solar photovoltaic (PV) boom, marking the beginning of the country's biggest and most swift energy transition. In 2021, Vietnam's solar energy capacity was roughly 16.6 thousand megawatts, which is hardly compared to the previous year.

Would Vietnam have experienced a runaway growth in solar PV installations?

It is fair to say that Vietnam would not have experienced such runaway growth in solar PV installations if reverse auctions had been the only procurement mechanism. This is because it is unlikely that the government would have procured such large quantities of new power generation capacity so quickly through auctions.

Is solar PV a sustainable and affordable deployment in Vietnam?

Since 2018, the World Bank has been supporting the Government of Vietnam in its transition from FIT to competitive bidding. The main constraints identified in a sustainable and affordable deployment of solar PV in Vietnam are described below. a. Lack of centralized controlled planning creates evacuation constraints and generation curtailment.

Is Vietnam a reliable long-term investment in the solar market?

To signal to private investors that Vietnam is a reliable long-term potential investment in the solar market, it is critical to have medium-term deployment targets with clear timelines (every 12, 18, or 24 months) that can be communicated to the private sector.

Who are the main power producers in Vietnam?

In Vietnam, the main power producers are state-owned enterprises whose risk appetite is quite different from the diverse appetites of international IPPs, investors, or smaller Vietnamese companies not linked to the government. The time and money the IPP spends during development (development risk).
