Why does my roof leak after installing solar panels?

There are various reasons your roof could leak after installing solar panels. They mostly have to do with poor installation where mounting holes are not sealed properly, the top is incompatible with solar panels, or the roof is old and not designed for solar panels.

Is it the solar panels that are leaking?

If solar panels are not ideally suited for your roof, poor installation tactics can make your roof leak. Roofs made from wood shingles, clay, slate, and terracotta tiles are particularly vulnerable to leaks and damage during installation.

What should I do if my solar panel is leaking?

Regularly clean the panels and surrounding roof areas to prevent buildup of dust, leaves, and other debris that can cause damage. Inspect and reinforce roof flashings and seals to prevent leaks and water damage, especially in areas surrounding the solar panel mounts.

Why is my solar hot water roof leaking?

More than anything, a solar hot water roof leak is likely going to occur near one of the valves. Closely examine all of the parts of your system in which valve, pipe fittings, and other hardware are installed to safely connect two components.

Can a rooftop solar system leak damage your home?

If your roof is designed to handle a little bit of rain, then it is unlikely that a rooftop solar system leak will cause any serious damage to your home. However, if the leak were to occur in one of the system's internal components, then you may have more trouble on your hands.

How do I protect my solar panels from leaking water?

These barriers help to direct water away from the roof penetrations, reducing the risk of leaks. Monitor for pests: Birds, rodents, and other pests can sometimes nest under solar panels, causing damage to your roof. Regularly inspect the area around your solar panels for signs of pest activity and take suitable action to remove them if necessary.
